THE NEW ISA RC15 BOARD 2014-2018

Letter from the President of RC15

Dear colleagues,

I have much to report in this 2014 Fall edition of the newsletter!

We had an extremely stimulating, lively and well-attended 22 sessions at the ISA World Congress in Yokohama. My thanks go to former President Jon Gabe and Vice-President Ivy Bourgeault for their excellent work in planning and organizing the RC15 conference programme. I am especially proud that we set up a new stream of financial assistance for RC15 members who did not qualify for the stringent ISA registration subsidy requirements of two years of past membership, which was particularly detrimental to student members. We shall keep this initiative going into the future.

Furthermore, thanks to our Japanese colleagues, particularly Board Member Masahira Anesaki, Miwako Hosoda, and Takuya Matsushige, our social program was just as successful. Our reception, held at a local Japanese restaurant (tatamis included!) offered guests the opportunity to sample a lavish, authentic Japanese multiple course meal with Prof. Hosoda's generous translation ensuring that we could put a name of the delicious fare. Prof. Anesaki and Dr. Matsushige organized a riveting full-day study tour of health care in the Kanagawa prefecture, which I report on in greater detail in this newsletter. Finally, we innovated this year with a new social event on mentoring, to further reach out to the next generation of scholars. Secretary-Treasurer Stephanie Short, who led this new initiative with Prof. Hosoda, reports on it in this newsletter.

2014 is also an election year. First, the Board elected the RC15 officers for 2014-2018 at the Congress. I am honored to and humbled to have been elected by the Board to follow in the footsteps of my predecessors. I look forward to working with Vice-President Guido Giarelli and Secretary-Treasurer Stephanie Short to ensure that our RC15 thrives and remains one of the leading RCs of the ISA.

We also held elections this fall, and are now happy to announce the following incoming Board members.

We present these new Board members in greater detail later in the newsletter. You will note that voters appeared to have heeded our RC's commitment to gender and regional diversity! I also want to thank all 10 outstanding candidates for taking the time to submit their candidacy. I think it is fair to say that we have a vibrant and generous community of members, and it must have been a challenge for voters to decide between all these worthy candidates.

New Board members are appointed until 2022, and join the current Board and officers appointed until 2018: Masahira Anesaki (Japan), Jon Gabe (UK, until 2016), Guido Giarelli (Italy), Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld (U.S.), Ellen Kuhlmann (Germany), me (Canada) and Stephanie Short (Australia). I am sure you will join me in thanking warmly outgoing Board members: Jon Gabe and Ivy Bourgeault for their past four years of leadership at the helm of the RC15, assisted skillfully by Leah Gilbert and Ishwar Modi.

Finally, I want to bring your attention to a new initiative to facilitate communication and networking among RC15 members, and particularly reaching out to trainees. I created a LinkedIn group for RC15, where I would encourage you to start discussions, post announcements for recent publications, meetings, or jobs, etc. Twenty-three RC15 members have already joined, and I hope you will do so as well! If you are receiving this newsletter, you should already be preapproved for membership, but do not hesitate to email me at Amelie.quesnelvallee@mcgill.ca if that is not the case.

In sum, it appears that we have much to be thankful for: we have a large, vibrant RC with dedicated members, and we are accordingly awarded a large number of sessions and a fair amount of funding from ISA. However, I am keenly aware that complacency is not an option, and, much as we have already innovated with a new student mentoring session and the LinkedIn group, I assure you that I have other exciting plans in store for our next meetings in Vienna, Austria in 2016 and in Toronto, Canada in 2018! I also encourage you to contact me or other board member if you have suggestions of how the RC could better serve your needs.

So stay tuned for that, and in the meantime, enjoy the holiday season!

Mot du Président

Chers collègues,

J'ai beaucoup d'informations à signaler dans cette édition de l'automne 2014 !

Nous avons eu 22 sessions stimulantes, animées et très courues au Congrès mondial de l'AIS à Yokohama. Mes remerciements vont au président et vice-présidente sortants Jon Gabe et Ivy Bourgeault pour leur excellent travail dans la planification et l'organisation du programme de la conférence. Je suis particulièrement fier d'avoir mis en place un système de financement des frais d'inscriptions qui s'avère plus flexible que celui de l'AIS qui requiert d'avoir été membre du CR depuis au moins deux ans pour être éligible. Je considère que ce système est particulièrement discriminatoire pour les étudiants, et je compte maintenir ce soutien financier pour les prochaines rencontres.

En outre, grâce à nos collègues japonais, notamment Masahira Anesaki, Miwako Hosoda et Takuya Matsushige, notre programme social a été tout autant un succès. Notre réception, tenue dans un restaurant japonais local (tatamis inclus!) a offert aux convives la possibilité de déguster un somptueux repas japonais authentique de multiples services. En prime, la généreuse traduction du professeur Hosoda nous a permis d'identifier les délicieux mets qui nous ont été présentés. En outre, Prof. Anesaki et Dr. Matsushige ont organisé une visite d'une journée complète portant sur le système de santé de la préfecture de Kanagawa, dont je rends compte en plus en détail dans ce bulletin. Enfin, nous avons innové cette année avec un nouvel événement social de mentorat, pour animer le dialogue avec la prochaine génération de chercheurs. La Secrétaire-trésorière Stephanie Short, qui a dirigé cette nouvelle initiative avec le professeur Hosoda, fait un compte rendu de cet événement dans ce bulletin.

2014 est également une année électorale pour notre comité de recherche. Premièrement, le conseil a élu les membres du comité exécutif de RC15 pour la période 2014-2018 lors de notre rencontre au Congrès. Je suis honorée d'avoir été élue par le Conseil pour suivre dans les traces de mes illustres prédécesseurs. C'est avec plaisir que je travaillerai avec le vice-président Guido Giarelli et la secrétaire-trésorière Stephanie Short pour assurer le dynamisme de notre comité et qu'il réponde à vos besoins.

Nous avons également organisé des élections pour le conseil cet automne, et nous sommes maintenant heureux d'annoncer que les membres suivants ont été élus:

Nous présentons ces nouveaux membres du conseil plus en détail dans le bulletin. Vous remarquerez que les électeurs semblent avoir tenu compte de l'engagement de notre CR à la diversité régionale et de genre! Je tiens également à remercier l'ensemble des 10 candidats exceptionnels d'avoir pris le temps de soumettre leur candidature. Nous avons une communauté dynamique, et cela a dû être un défi pour les électeurs de décider entre tous ces candidats méritants.

Mensaje del Presidente

Estimados colegas,

Tengo mucho que contarles en esta edición del boletín de otoño de 2014.

Nuestras 22 sesiones del Congreso de Yokohama de la Asociación Internacional de Sociología fueron muy estimulantes, entretenidas y tuvieron además una alta convocatoria. Entrego desde ya mis agradecimientos al expresidente Jon Gabe y la exVice-Presidente Ivy Bourgeault, por su extraordinario esfuerzo en organizar y planificar la conferencia RC15. Estoy especialmente orgullosa de que hayamos introducido una nueva medida de apoyo financiero para aquellos miembros de la conferencia RC15, que no pudieron ser previamente considerados, dada las estrictas líneas de subsidio asociadas a la antigüedad que deben tener nuestros miembros. Esto, créo, fue particularmente perjudicial para aquellos miembros que eran estudiantes. Mantendremos esta iniciativa en el futuro.

Quiero además reconocer que gracias a nuestros colegas japoneses Masahira Anesaki, Miwako Hosoda, y Takuya Matsushige, tuvimos un muy exitoso programa social. Nuestra recepción, realizada en un restaurante japonés (¡con tatamis incluidos!) le ofreció a los invitados e invitadas la oportunidad de probar una dadivosa muestra de comida local, la cual gracias a la generosa traducción del Prof. Hosoda, pudimos conocer cada uno de los platos. El Prof. Anesaki y el Dr. Matsushige organizaron una jornada completa para visitar y conocer el sistema de salud de la prefectura de Kanagawa—del cual por cierto les entrego muchos más detalles en este boletín. Finalmente, este año introducimos un nuevo evento de mentoring con el cual podemos acercarnos más a la nueva generación de académicos e investigadores. La Encargada de Finanzas Stephanie Short, quien lidero esta iniciativa junto al Prof. Hosoda, nos entrega más información sobre esta actividad en este boletín.

Este año 2014 es también un año de elecciones. En primer lugar, el Consejo, en el congreso, eligió a los miembros del comité ejecutivo del programa RC15 para el periodo 2014-2018. Es realmente un honor para mí haber sido electa por el Consejo para seguir los pasos precedentes de mis antecesores. Será un placer trabajar con el Vice-Presidente, Guido Giarelli y la Encargada de Finanzas, Stephanie Short, para asegurar que nuestro comité responda plenamente a nuestras necesidades.

Nosotros también llevamos a cabo elecciones este otoño, y estamos orgullosos de anunciar los siguientes nuevos miembros del Consejo:

Entregamos más detalles sobre los nuevos miembros en el boletín. Ustedes ya se habrán dado cuenta que nuestros electores al parecer han apoyado con entusiasmo tanto la diversidad de género como la regional. Quiero también agradecer a cada uno de los diez candidatos haber entregado su valioso tiempo para ofrecer sus candidaturas. Creo que es justo decir que tenemos una comunidad vibrante y generosa, y que debió realmente haber sido muy difícil para los electores haber decidido por un grupo de candidatos tan fuerte.

Le mandat des nouveaux membres s'étend jusqu'en 2022, et ils joignent les membres du conseil nommés jusqu'en 2018: Masahira Anesaki (Japon), Jon Gabe (Royaume-Uni, jusqu'en 2016), Guido Giarelli (Italie), Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld (États-Unis), Ellen Kuhlmann (Allemagne), moi (Canada) et Stephanie Short (Australie). Je suis certaine que vous vous joindrez à moi pour remercier chaleureusement les membres sortants du conseil: Jon Gabe et Ivy Bourgeault pour leurs quatre dernières années de leadership à la tête de la RC15, assistés par Leah Gilbert et Ishwar Modi.

Enfin, je veux attirer votre attention sur une nouvelle initiative visant à faciliter la communication et le réseautage entre les membres du comité, particulièrement parmi les étudiants. J'ai créé un groupe LinkedIn pour RC15, où je vous encourage à entamer des discussions, afficher des annonces de publications récentes, de colloques, des offres d'emplois, etc. Vingt-trois membres ont déjà joint le réseau, et j'espère que vous en ferez de même! Si vous recevez ce bulletin, vous devriez déjà être pré-approuvés pour l'adhésion, mais n'hésitez pas à me contacter si ce n'est pas le cas (amelie.quesnelvallee@mcgill.ca).

En somme, nous sommes dans une situation enviable: nous avons un grand nombre de membres dévoués et dynamiques, et nous avons donc obtenu un grand nombre de sessions et un bon niveau de financement de l'AIS. Cependant, je suis très consciente que nous devons éviter à tout prix d'être complaisants. Nous avons déjà innové avec la nouvelle activité de mentorat et le groupe LinkedIn, mais je vous assure que j'ai maints autres projets excitants à vous soumettre pour nos prochaines réunions à Vienne, en Autriche en 2016 et à Toronto, Canada en 2018. Par ailleurs, si vous avez des suggestions qui pourraient nous permettre de mieux rencontrer vos besoins, n'hésitez pas à m'en faire part.

Gardez l'œil ouvert pour nos annonces concernant les prochaines conférences, et en attendant, meilleurs voeux de joyeuses fêtes!

Los nuevos miembros del Consejo han sido nombrados hasta el año 2022, y se unen al actual consejo y miembros designados hasta el año 2018: Masahira Anesaki (Japon), Jon Gabe (Reino Unido, hasta el año 2016), Guido Giarelli (Italia), Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld (Estados Unidos), Ellen Kuhlmann (Alemania), yo (Canada) and Stephanie Short (Australia). Estoy segura que ustedes junto a mí también quisieran entregar un fuerte y caluroso agradecimiento a los miembros del Consejo Jon Gabe e Ivy Bourgeault por su liderazgo en los últimos cuatro años a la cabeza del RC15, asistidos por cierto por Leah Gilbert et Ishwar Modi.

Quiero aprovechar esta oportunidad para recordarles la nueva iniciativa que ha sido diseñada para tareas de comunicación y fortalecer nuestras redes entre los miembros del RC15—en particular para poder estar más cerca de nuestros estudiantes. He creado un grupo en LinkedIn (LinkedIn group for RC15), el cual espero pueda ser utilizado por cada uno de nosotros con el objeto de fomentar conversaciones, subir información sobre publicaciones recientes, trabajos, encuentros, reuniones, entre otras. Hasta ahora ya han sido 23 los miembros de RC15 que se han unido, y espero tú también lo hagas. Si tu estas recibiendo este boletín es porque ya tienes pre-aprobada una membresía, pero por favor no dudes en contactarme a mi correo Amelie.quesnelvallee@mcgill.ca si este no es el caso.

En resumen, al parecer tenemos mucho que agradecer: tenemos una RC grande y vibrante con unos miembros absolutamente comprometidos, y en consecuencia hemos sido beneficiados con un número importante de sesiones. Pero además una cantidad considerable de apoyo financiero por parte de la Asociación Internacional de Sociología también ha sido entregada. Sin embargo, es menester hacerles saber que la complacencia no será parte de nuestro ethos, y aun cuando ya hemos innovado con la sesión de mentoring para estudiantes y el grupo LinkedIn, les aseguro que ya tengo muchos planes guardados para nuestros próximos encuentros en Viena, Austria en 2016, y en Toronto, Canadá en 2018. Les animo a que nos contacten, a mí o a otros miembros del Consejo, si tienen sugerencias en como el RC puede atender sus necesidades. Así que por lo pronto manténganse conectados y mientras tanto disfruten las fiestas de fin de año.

Life of RC15 - Sociology of Health

ISA CONGRESS, YOKOHAMA 13-19 JULY, 2014

“Facing an Unequal World: Challenges for Global Sociology”

Program Coordinators: Ivy BOURGEOULT (University of Ottawa, Canada)
and Jonathan GABE (Royal Holloway, University of London, United Kingdom)

Report from the Programme Co-Coordinator for RC15 Sessions

Together with my colleague Ivy Bourgeault, who shared the role of co-ordinating the programme for RC15 in Yokohama, I would like to thank everyone who made the sessions such a success: the session organisers, chairs, panel presenters and authors of distributed papers, and those who attended and participated in these sessions.

RC15 put on a total of 19 sessions – 3 more than at the last World Congress in Gothenburg in 2010. We also co-hosted 7 sessions with other RCs (RC11, RC13, RC15, RC19, RC22, RC31 and RC52) – again 3 more than in Gothenburg. Nearly 200 papers appeared on the programme as presented and distributed (tabled), 29 more than in 2010. This increase in sessions and papers suggests that RC15 is in good health. I am not able to make an accurate assessment but my impression is that there were also fewer last minute withdrawals than at previous Congresses.

A tally of first author institutions on papers shows that they came from 38 different countries (Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Hungary, India, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Lithuania, Nepal, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nigeria, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Russia, Spain, South Africa, South Korea, Sweden, Switzerland, Taiwan, Thailand, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom, United States). The UK and US were, as previously, highly represented. This year, however, Japan was equally well represented, which is perhaps not that surprising, given that it was hosting the congress. It is to be hoped that Japanese colleagues will participate in large numbers again in 2018, in Canada.

I was not able to attend all the sessions due to commitments elsewhere in the conference programme, but I was present at many. The sessions were timetabled from 8.30 am through to 8.50 pm, although most finished by 7.20pm. This was a definite improvement on the previous World Congress when sessions did not end until 10pm on many nights. The only disappointment was the scheduling of four sessions on the last day, after the closing party, which had some impact on the numbers attending. Overall though, sessions were well attended and the discussion was often lively.

ISA RC15 Mentoring Panel 17 July 2014 Yokohama

The Mentoring Panel Dinner was an initiative introduced into the Yokohama Conference. It was held in the Conference venue on the evening of Thursday 17 July and organised by Profs Miwako Hosoda (Japan) and Stephanie Short (Australia).

The Mentoring Panel provided an opportunity for Early Career Scholars to meet with Members of the ISA RC15 Board and Senior Sociologists (left to right): Nelson Barros (Brazil), Jon Gabe (UK), Amelie Quesnel-Vallee (Canada), Masahira Anesaki (Japan), Jennie Jacobs-Kronenfeld (USA) Miwako Hosoda (Japan) and Stephanie Short (Australia)

The session was a semi-structured activity with Mentors first responding to a series of questions and then Scholars able to ask questions from the floor.

The questions included:

"What advice or insight do I wish I had when I completed my doctorate?"

"What was the worst career decision you every made and why?"

"What has been your most successful collaboration with an international colleague? How did the relationship start and how do you keep it going?"

The early career scholars included Jacqueline Tudball (Australia), Fiona Pacey (Australia), Sofie Dencker-Larsen (Denmark), Priya Buldeo (South Africa) and Joana Almeida (UK).

The Young Scholars said that they got to know the importance of attracting research grants, of writing papers, and of participating in academic collaborations.

Also, some were interested in studying abroad, and some were curious about how to manage work and life balance.

One of the Young Scholars also attended the 'Junior meets Senior Sociologists' session at the Congress, and commented it was almost overwhelming in terms of participants and volume in the room. The opportunity to meet in a more intimate setting with experts from the health field was greatly appreciated, as was their willingness to share openly about the opportunities and challenges of academic careers.

The PhD students and early career researchers expressed a preference to establish an electronic network so they could communicate and keep in touch with each other. To this end we are delighted that in October our President, Amelie Quesnel-Vallée, established a LinkedIn ISA RC15 group to achieve this aim.

Amelie encourages us to join the RC15 group on LinkedIn to share information in real-time with RC15 members and get involved in discussions with other members.

https://www.linkedin.com/groups/Research-Committee-on-Sociology-Health-8199252?home=&gid=8199252&trk=anet_ug_hm

As RC15 members, you have been pre-approved for this group membership. Note that only RC15 members will be allowed to join as group members, and can post freely, but the discussions will be visible to all (including early career researchers), and other LinkedIn members will be able to post information with moderator vetting.

It is our intention to organize an RC15 Mentoring Panel for the Third ISA Forum of Sociology to be held in Vienna, Austria, July 10-14, 2016.

RC15 Study Tour

On July 17, a contingent of RC15 members were treated to a full-day study tour of Japanese health system facilities in the Kanagawa Prefecture. Prof. Masahira Anasaki, assisted by Takuya Matsushige, offered us a generous, nuanced and balanced view of a health system that went from services for the most destitute to state-of-the-art cancer facilities. The system was oriented by the Kanagawa Prefecture Governor's perspective on health, "Me-Byo", a term approaching wellness, calling for health promotion approaches, and not merely curative ones.

It would have been easy for Prof. Anasaki to showcase only the gleaming facets of this health care system, but as a true sociologist of health, he first showed us how this social insurance system accommodates the have nots: the chronically unemployed, immigrants, uninsured, those with disabilities and addictions – those who have had "a hard life" as the community clinic Director tactfully put it. This visit put a face (or rather many faces) on the reality of social inequalities in health in Japan, which is increasingly being recognized (see notably Hiyoshi et al. 2014 Social Science & Medicine).

This deprivation and the difficult living conditions we witnessed stand in stark contrast with the exquisite refinement of the tea ceremony with which we were greeted by the public health agency "tea club" members, and even more so with the luxurious cancer care facility (baby grand piano in the common area included!). These surroundings were so serene and skillfully designed that many noted they appeared to have therapeutic properties in and of themselves. We ended the tour with a visit of Keiyu Hospital, formerly for the police force, now, open to the public.

ISA RC15 Members are most grateful to Professor Masahira Anasaki for organising and leading this study tour. It is an initiative we would be very pleased to replicate in Vienna in 2016 and Toronto in 2018, as the site visits really brought our research and teaching in the Sociology of Health to life.

Alex Asakitikpi, Michael Calnan, Miwako Hosoda and Mike Saks received the most votes and were elected as new RC 15 Board members.

Congratulations to the newly elected Board members and thanks for submitting their candidacy to those who were not elected!

Dr. ALEX ASAKITIKPI is a Senior Lecturer and Head of Sociology Department at Monash University, South Africa Campus. He is a trained sociologist and anthropologist with research interests in health policies; urban health; and the interface of religion and spirituality on health outcomes. He is currently an executive board member of the International Society for Urban Health (ISUH) as well as a non-resident scholar with the Centre for religion/spirituality and health at Duke University. He is passionate about health challenges in the global south and he encourages young researchers in Africa to be a part of ISA (and in particular to RC 15) for productive international engagements.

Professor MICHAEL CALNAN is a medical sociologist who is interested in the Sociology of Health, Medicine and Health Policy and has researched and published extensively on wide range of health related topics. He was Director of CHSS at the University of Kent in the UK and was involved in establishing and directing the WHO-Euro Collaborating Centre for Patient Rights. His books include: Health, Medicine and Society. Key Theories, Future Agendas (2000); Work Stress: the making of a modern epidemic (2002), Trust Matters in Health Care (2008), The New Sociology of the Health Service (2009) and Trusting on the Edge (2012). His current research interests include: (1) the study of trust relations in health systems including comparative work in Australia and India 2) the study of ageing and dignity in health care.

Dr. MIWAKO HOSODA, Vice-President of Seisa University, has been doing her sociological research by observing human relations in the healthcare field. She is particularly interested in the coordination of people who are coping with medical health issues, healthcare policy and public participation. She graduated from the Department of Sociology, University of Tokyo, in 1992, and received an MA and PhD in Sociology from the University of Tokyo. After working as a research fellow for The Japan Society for the Promotion of Science, she studied at Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health and Harvard School of Public Health.

Prof. MIKE SAKS has a PhD in Sociology from the London School of Economics and is Professor of Health and Community Studies at University Campus Suffolk (UCS), UK. He was formerly Provost at UCS, Deputy Vice Chancellor at the University of Lincoln and Dean of Faculty of Health and Community Studies at De Montfort University. He has advised governments and professional bodies internationally on health issues and been a member/chair of numerous NHS and other health committees. He has written many journal articles/chapters, as well as more than a dozen books on health, professions, regulation, comparative health care and health research.
