ISA World Congress 2010, Gothenburg, Sweden

The XVIIth World Congress of Sociology was held in Gothenburg, Sweden, July 11-17, 2010. It was one of the largest ISA congresses with over 4800 people in attendance. This made it an exciting event but also presented a number of challenges including program space, venue location and time for individual Research Committees, such as ISSA, to meet with their members. Despite a few small challenges members of ISSA once again demonstrated their true international spirit through great attendance at sessions and a willingness to engage with scholars from all regions, languages and cultures. The social events were, as always, exciting. Eunha Koh and Hanjoo Kim's "Abba" karaoke was outstanding as was Pasi Koski's version of Monty Python's "Always Look On the Bright Side of Life" (from the movie Life of Brian just in case you are not familiar with the song). In order to be proactive and improve ISA Congresses in the future ISSA has taken the following steps:

- ISSA (RC27) put forth a motion at the ISA Executive Board meetings that in future the program is changed to: change its scheduling to eliminate late night sessions and to provide more space for sessions for individual Research Committees to run their programs. This motion was supported unanimously by more than 50 Research Committees.
- ISSA has sent a letter to all ISA Research Committees with a view to collating feedback on their experiences of the ISA Congress. This information will be sent to the ISA Executive Board to help in their planning for ISA 2014 which will be held in Yokohama, Japan.

One of the benefits of ISA membership is access to ISA and its resources. ISSA Members can log-in to ISA at: <http://www.sagepub.net/isa> (fill in your e-mail address and normally your password is your last name – if you have any trouble just click "forgot password" and it will be sent immediately). This site provides access to all SAGE Sociology journals, the ISA e-Bulletin and Sociopedia: a sociology publication and web of knowledge site.

Call for Applications

Editor: International Review for the Sociology of Sport

The International Sociology of Sport Association executive board is soliciting candidates for the position of editor of the International Review for the Sociology of Sport.

Published since 1966, the International Review for the Sociology of Sport is recognised as a high profile journal:

- indexed on ISI
- ascribed to category 'A' in the Australian journal classification system
- Available in 3,500 libraries and institutions worldwide
- Amongst SAGE's most accessed sociology journals

The new editor will assume the position in January 2012 and during the interim will begin working with the current editor, John Sugden, to become familiar with journal operations and procedures. The term of office is 3 years.

The candidate should be a strong scholar with experience as an editor, associate editor, or active editorial board member. A willingness to work collaboratively to ensure that the journal meets ISSA standards and goals will be required. The applicant must also be proficient in managing the submitted manuscripts and to expedite reviews.

The International Sociology of Sport Association executive board will review applications and select the candidates. If you have questions about the position, do not hesitate to contact the current editor, John Sugden, or the members of the search committee.

Candidates should send a copy of their curriculum vitae, a statement about their vision or plan for the journal and their relevant experience by email or mail no later than January 15, 2011, to:

CALL FOR PAPERS

The 'Olympic and Paralympic effect' on public policy: use and misuse

The capacity of the Olympic and Paralympic Games to affect public policy of both the host country and the participating country is long-standing and significant and often, but certainly not always, subject to a positive assessment. The hosting by Tokyo of the 1964 Paralympic Games was credited with changing local perceptions of, and policy towards, disability and the exclusion of South Africa from the Olympic Games was credited with maintaining the media spotlight on the practice of apartheid and thus contributing to its eventual collapse. However, these positive policy impacts have to be balanced against a history of repression of domestic protest by host countries who are determined to deliver a 'successful' Games as well as accusations of environmental damage and the diversion of resources from other areas of public expenditure on sport or culture. For every example of a perceived positive impact of the Games a perceived negative example can be identified – the Games are by no means an unalloyed benefit to hosts and participating nations.

The Special Issue of the International Journal of Sport Policy invites contributions which provide a critical analysis of the Games and which address issues such as the impact of the Olympic and Paralympic Games on:

- domestic sport policy
- international relations
- environmental policy
- on particular groups in the community defined, for example, by gender, ethnicity, age or location
- school physical education and the wider curriculum
- internal security and policing
- doping and anti-doping policy

Key deadlines for contributors:

Full Papers (between 8,000 and 10,000 words maximum) due 16th May 2011 via Manuscript Central. Please contact the Editor-in-Chief (b.m.j.houlihan@lboro.ac.uk) or one of the Co-Editors, Andy Smith (andy.smith@chester.ac.uk) or Daniel Bloyce (d.bloyce@chester.ac.uk), to discuss potential submissions.

Submissions

Please consult the website <http://www.tandf.co.uk/journals/journal.asp?issn=1940-6940&linktype=44> or the inside cover of the International Journal of Sport Policy for guidance on format and submission via Manuscript Central.

With all submissions please include a note that the paper is for consideration for inclusion in the 'Olympic Games' special issue.

Barrie Houlihan, Editor in Chief

The Olympics & Celebrity Culture

Guest Editors: David L. Andrews and Steve Jackson

Papers are invited for a special issue that focuses on the relationship between celebrity and the modern Olympic Games. Celebrities have become an important part of the Olympic spectacle, with regard to the position and influence of high profile athletes, coaches, broadcasters, organizers, and sport administrators. This special issue seeks to critically examine the cultural, social, political, and economic dimensions of the Olympic celebrity economy, through papers from any theoretical or methodological perspective, which can either be historical or contemporary in focus. Papers related celebrity-related aspects of the 2012 London Olympic Games are particularly welcome. Sample topics include:

- Olympic celebrity in social, historical, political, and economic context
- The production, representation, circulation and consumption of Olympic celebrity
- The identity politics of Olympic Celebrity: intersections of gender, race, nation, sexuality and dis(ability)
- The global-local nexus of Olympic celebrity
- IOC officials and Host Organizing Committee members as celebrities
- Olympic broadcasters as celebrities

Authors are invited to submit a preliminary abstract for comment to either David Andrews (dla@umd.edu) or Steve Jackson (steve.jackson@otago.ac.nz). Final papers should be submitted to either of the editors by September 1, 2011. Essays between 6,000 to 8,000 words should be in English, double spaced, including all quoted material, notes and references and conform to the Harvard reference style. The Harvard style uses the name of the author and the date as a key to the full bibliographic details which are set out at the end of the paper. Authors should confirm at submission that their essay is not also under consideration with another journal or publisher. Submissions will be subject to a blind review. Authors will be required to submit an accepted manuscript in electronic form, preferably Word Files. An email address and full postal address must be supplied for the corresponding author.

Celebrity Studies is a journal that focuses on the critical exploration of celebrity, stardom and fame. It seeks to make sense of celebrity by drawing upon a range of (inter)disciplinary approaches, media forms, historical periods and national contexts. Celebrity Studies aims to address key issues in the production, circulation and consumption of fame, and its manifestations in both contemporary and historical contexts, while functioning as a key site for academic debate about the enterprise of celebrity studies itself.
