SOCIOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION OF UKRAINE
announces

The Third SAU Congress

«New Inequalities – New Conflicts: paths of overcoming»

12-13 October 2017, Kharkiv, Ukraine

Organized jointly by Sociological Association of Ukraine and V. N. Karazin Kharkiv National University, School of Sociology.

Call for papers

The aim of the Congress is discussion and finding the possible paths of overcoming the social tension as the aftermath of the deep social inequality in Ukraine. The new forms of social inequality appear in unequal access of the Ukrainians to such social resources as qualitative secondary and high education, employment, decent pay and pension, qualitative health services and recreation, own business, political participation, authority, internet access, cultural recourses, particularly language competence etc. How do different citizens percept the various kinds of social inequality? The inaccessibility to what resources can provoke the active mass protests and conflicts between different social groups and the public authorities? What the public authorities and civic society should do for reducing the social tension in Ukrainian society? What answers on these questions can be proposed by Sociology? All these questions indicate the scientific issues for consideration at the Congress.
