I.S.A.
INTERNATIONAL SOCIOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
A group of sociologists from various countries, having met in Oslo
September 1949 under the auspices of UNESCO, being convinced of the desirability and necessity of improving relations between sociologists of various countries, established the I.S.A.
(Preamble of Statutes 1949 - 1970). The council of the I.S.A., having met in regular quadrennial session at Varna, September 1970, and having given
due consideration to the many changes that have occurred in the Association,
as well as in the broader world
community of sociologists, adopted amendments to the Statutes originally agreed in Oslo. (Preamble of Statutes 1970). The International Sociological Association is an organization for purely scientific purpose (Statutes I).
The object of the association is to advance sociological knowledge throughout the world. To this end the Association shall undertake measures,
(a) To secure and to develop personal contacts between sociologists
throughout the world.
(b) To encourage the International dissemination and exchange of information on significant developments in sociological knowledge.
(c) To facilitate and promote international sociological research.
(Statutes II).

Toronto is Canada's largest metropolis and enjoys a deserved reputation as one of North America's safest and most exciting cities. A wide variety of entertainment is to be found in the city and the countrysides of both Ontario and the neighbouring province of Quebec offer a range of vacation possibilities.

Delegates wishing to obtain tourist information for Ontario should write to the Convention and Tourist Bureau of Metropolitan Toronto, 26 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5H 1H9. Information for Quebec can be obtained from Department of Tourism, Parliament Buildings, Quebec City, Quebec, Canada G1A 1P8.

HAVE YOU CHECKED YOUR PASSPORT RECENTLY? TO BE CERTAIN IT DOES NOT EXPIRE UNTIL AFTER THE DATE OF YOUR RETURN FROM THE CONGRESS?

Vaccination: Canada requires that all visitors arriving from areas where smallpox is still endemic should be vaccinated. Visitors must be in apparent good health or quarantine regulations may be applied. Remember that you may require vaccination to get back into your own country especially if you stop at other countries on route to Canada.

Above information supplied by Canadian Government in October 1973. For certainty, it would be wise to confirm with the Canadian embassy in your country.

* Please note that Canada does not recognize passports issued by the government of Southern Rhodesia.

3. Local facilities

Facilities such as day care services will be available. Persons requiring this service are requested to write in advance, specifying age of children involved to "Day Care", CLAC/ISA, c/o Sociology Dept., University of Toronto, 55 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5S 1A1.

Information on other facilities such as local sightseeing, tours, etc., will be contained in the survival-kit supplied to all registered delegates. For U.S. tours, pre and post Congress excursions, please refer to the enclosed travel folder.

4. Registration

The form for registration at the VIII World Congress of Sociology is included. This form is to be detached, completed and sent to the ISA Secretariat in Milan. Participants who return the completed form before March 15th have the advantage of paying a lower fee.

After June 30th, 1974, the Milan Secretariat will not accept further registrations and those who wish to register must do so upon their arrival in Toronto. Friends and relatives of delegates are welcome and for these a nominal registration fee of $5 per person is required. (This amount is not to be sent with the registration form, but is to be paid in Toronto at the registration desk). This will entitle them to travel and hotel reservations at the same reduced cost available for Congress participants and to local sight-seeing facilities, although they will not be able to take part in the scientific proceedings of the Congress. They will also receive the survival-kit and the "Enjoy Toronto" guide book, but not the scientific material distributed to participants and students.

Each registered participant on arrival in Toronto will be entitled to a folder containing:

- membership card and badge
- congress program
- a copy of the abstracts of congress papers
- up-dated list of official papers
- forms for ordering position papers
- survival kit information on local facilities
- a guide of Toronto and its neighbourhood

A special desk for late registrations and registration of relatives will be opened on the university campus in the Sidney Smith Building. Days and times of opening are as follows:

- Sunday 18th Aug. 14-23 hr.
- Monday 19th Aug. 8-21 hr.
- Tuesday 20th Aug. 8-21 hr.
- Wednesday 21st Aug. 8-16,30 hr.
- Thursday 22nd Aug. 8-16,30 hr.
- Friday 23rd Aug. 8-16,30 hr.

Registered delegates are also requested to present themselves at the desk as soon as they arrive in order to collect their folders and badges.

5. Cancellations

Only written or cabled cancellations can be accepted. Registered participants who are prevented from attending the Congress will receive a refund of the fee less 10% provided that notice of non-attendance is received more than 30 days before the Congress. If notice of cancellation is received less than 30 days before the Congress, the fee cannot be refunded.

6. Papers and the sale of papers

July 1st is the last date for receipt in Toronto of papers for duplication. Invited papers only are eligible for duplication (this includes papers for Plenary Sessions, Working Groups, Round Tables, Symposia, and Poster Sessions). Copies may be edited and typed in English or French. A paper sales office will be open during the Congress. Copies of papers to be read at Plenary Sessions, Working Groups, Round Tables, Symposia, and Research Committees will be available for sale. In addition, duplicating facilities will be available at a small cost to persons who wish to duplicate limited numbers of papers being delivered at smaller sessions.

7. Travel

For information on travel from outside the U.S. and Canada please see the enclosed forms.

8. Travel grants

Due to limited funds, travel grants may only be requested by:

— actually taking part in the Congress
— coming from and working in a developing country.

Forms for requesting the travel grants have been sent to all session chairmen to pass on to eligible scholars. Persons who wish to come and are unable to meet the above criteria may obtain the form from ISA Secretariat, Via Daverio 7, 20122 Milan, Italy.

ASA INVITES ISA COLLEAGUES TO ANNUAL MEETING IN MONTREAL

The 69th Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association will be held in Montreal August 26-29, 1974 at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel. This meeting will follow immediately after the 8th World Congress of the ISA in Toronto, August 19-24. In planning its meetings, the ASA is taking note of this unique circumstance and has built into its program features that should be of special interest to ISA members.

The theme of this year’s meeting, as announced by President Peter M. Blau, is “Focus on Social Structure.” Several plenary sessions will explore current developments in the structural approach which, according to President Blau, is “designed to give us a better understanding of the structure of relations among groups and individuals that finds expression in this behavior.” The ultimate objective, Blau adds, is to advance by means of such sociological explanations our knowledge about society, how it changes, and how it can be changed.

In addition to plenary sessions, panels, and seminars, the program offers opportunities for sociologists to submit papers (1,500 words by January 15, 1974) to organizers who are responsible for 61 sessions. Numbered among these sessions are the following with a particular international flavor: The Political Economy of the World System, Global Sociology, Cross-National Organizational Research, Comparative Study of Society, International Sociology, and Avenues for Cooperation, and World Conflict. ISA members who would like to submit papers should contact the ISA office for transmission to session organizers. (Names of session organizers are posted in the August and November, 1973 issues of the American Sociological Review.)

“Plea to hold the Congress in Canada: We have learned that the government of Canada is interested in hosting a scientific meeting of this size. We would need to complete all of the arrangements by May 20, 1974.”

Street, N. W. Washington, D. C. 20036). The transition from ISA to ASA activities will start on Sunday evening, August 25, with an official plenary session to be followed by a reception to welcome the international community of sociologists to the Montreal meeting.

COORDINATOR:
H.M. Choldin, Department of Sociology, University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign

The general topic of this Ad Hoc Group has to do with the effects of housing on family and neighborhood life. It is an environment-specific topic and it is independent of a special order dealing specifically with one part of the built environment. The inquiry involves housing not only as a dependent variable, but also as a dependent one. Research directed towards preferences for different features or housing characteristics, the element of the built environment as a dependent variable.

The topic is extremely international, professionally and substantively. The leading work in the area has been done in Europe, and the Congress will offer an opportunity for sociologists from other regions to benefit from the expertise. Substantively, the problem is contemporary and international since it is of concern in all urban areas, especially where there is governmental involvement in the supply of housing.

This group is concerned with elaborating the concept of "network" in the analysis of social structure and introducing the methodological techniques for extending the applications of this approach.

It is anticipated that a substantial, active contingent of participants in this specialty will attend the Congress. As one observes the rapidly growing interest in this field among political scientists, social anthropologists, and theorists and analysts of political-economic organisation, it seems likely that the sessions will also attract considerable attention from other sociologists.

Alberto Martinel, Via Fontana, 28 20122 Milano, Italy

The range of topics to be discussed can be defined with relation to the kind of problems identified by major social thinkers like Marx, Weber, Schumpeter, Pareto in their analysis of the relationship between the economy and society.

Four major types of analysis are proposed, which focus on:
1) Aspects of general social theory, such as the relationship between mode of production and social relations of production - in Marx's terms - and the relationship between economic and social arrangements and social forces - in Weber's terms. Specific examples are: ideology and economic organisation, classes and state economic policy, etc.
2) The interrelationship between economic and social structures with specific reference to the process of formation of industrial society and to economic development. Specific examples: the division of labor and worker organization, social forces and actors of economic change, etc.
3) The application of the conceptual framework and explanatory models of Sociology to the study of economic processes, i.e. production, distribution, exchange and consumption. Specific examples: the analysis of the market, of entrepreneurship, of wants and consumer behaviour, etc.
4) The attempts of integration and fusion of the theoretical models and analytical categories of Economics and Sociology. For further information and for submitting papers write to Alberto Martinelli, Tel. (30) 785373.

ANNOUNCING A WORK GROUP IN COMPARATIVE PUBLIC POLICY (Research Committee on Political Sociology)
The Ford Foundation has made a grant for a collaborative study of comparative public policy in Europe under the direction of Richard Rose, Secretary of the Committee on Political Sociology and Professor of Politics at the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow. The grant is for three years, as from 1 October 1974. The purpose of the research is to develop a comparative framework: for the comparative analysis of major public policies in European nations. The framework will evaluate the utility of the framework by applying it to substantive areas of public policy in European nations. The results of the research will provide a comparative analysis of productivity welfare policies as well as health and educational policies. The examination of economic management and income distribution, to crime, public order and international relations (supra-national). A major object will be to elucidate under what circumstances and within what areas (territorial or otherwise) social science concepts can be fruitfully employed. The research will form upon the scholarly contacts and discussions within the Committee on Political Sociology, a research committee of the International Sociological Association and the International Association of Political Sociology. A substantial portion of the work will be spent for conferences and meetings, so that scholars and policymakers can meet on a recurring basis to develop and apply a general conceptual vocabulary.

Concurrently, Professor Rose and others will coordinate a working group on major concepts and frameworks and hypotheses common to a wide range of comparative policy analysis. For a preliminary conference of the subject, see Richard Rose, «Comparing Public Policy», European Journal of Political Research I, 1973.

Three meetings have already been held to identify common ground in social science approaches to policy analysis. A Workshop at Strathclyde in June, 1972, held with the assistance of the European Centre for Political Research, brought together political scientists with a wide variety of interests. The ESPR article draws together ideas in common use among participants. A conference on environmental policy, held in London in April, 1973, with the cooperation of the Centre for Environmental Studies, and DATUM, Bonn/ Bad Godesberg, brought together social scientists and environmental scientists from two countries to examine a single substantive policy area. The papers will be published in The Management of the Environment in Britain and Germany (Sage Publications, Spring, 1974), edited by Richard Rose. Panels at the International Political Sciences Sociocultural Association World Congress in Montreal, August, 1973, compared some models of the policy, covering institutions of government, as well as specific policy contents.

In the next phase, the Committee’s research effort will emphasize the cross-national comparision of policy contents e.g., health care legislation. A meeting will be held in Warsaw in May, 1974 to examine variations in public policy in Eastern and Western Europe. A second meeting will be held in spring, 1974, to examine how the dynamics of public policy vary form area to area, and country to country. The participants in this collaborative research are drawn from several academic disciplines, as well as from many countries. Because the focus on Europe is not meant to exclude comparisons with nations outside Europe. To control for institutional development the research concentrates upon Western industrial societies. The material for the purpose of research will be published in a variety of ways appropriate to policy contents. One publication outlet will be the Committee’s new series of Sage Professional Papers in Comparative Public Policy. Individual scholars currently working in the field of comparative public policy are invited to communicate their interest and details of research in progress to Professor Richard Rose at the Department of Politics, University of Strathclyde, Glasgow, G1 1XQ, Scotland.

September 24-28, 1973:
XIII International Seminar on Family Research
This most successful seminar met from September 24-28, 1973, at the Musée des Arts et Traditions Populaires, Paris XVI, France. The Chairman and the organizing committee arranged a full program with several innovations in content and in organization. From the standpoint of content, members of the seminar were drawn from four intellectual disciplines: anthropology, sociology, history and sociology. A second innovation was to select so that a majority of papers were presented in a single conceptual framework, the development of the concept of the family life cycle. Addressed to a specific focus on the families of Europe. From the standpoint of organization, at the morning plenary session, the one uniform rule was that authors did not read their papers. Each day the plenary session followed a specific procedure to give the impression that the audience, from the chair until the last audience member, divded evenly between the authors and the audience, and a third variation was a discussion among members of the plenary panel with some audience participation through questions. Plenary program sessions at the World Congress next year operate under the same rule that authors submit their papers in written form, and only summarize them briefly at the Congress, this experience is valuable.

Your comments on the facet of organizing a session, i.e. on the allocation of time between authors, audience, rapporteur and chairman, will be most welcome. A third innovation in organization at the XIII Seminar ISFR was the division of the seminar into two or more working groups, each of 12-20 persons.

Provision was made for new topics that arose on one day to be organized into working groups the next day. Some four to six working groups held two or more sessions on topics such as divorce, family crises, family cycle, couple development and generational or intergenerational changes. Only representatives of at least five European countries is in process of formation around young authors.

Fourthly, in view of both interest and financial support, each day concluded with a cultural event, which allowed the participants to meet and talk informally with representatives of organizations active in some aspect of family intervention, such as family allowances, parent education, new families in new suburbs, and so on.

The party that some began and concluded this important meeting.

Summarizing, the plenary session and the working groups, Jean Cusenier noted that everyone agreed the Family Life Cycle was a useful concept. For the first time in analysis there was no consensus and so much variation in meaning that it had limited utility. This lack of consensus is based on theoretical weaknesses, not on weaknesses in either method or data.

Numerous ways to advance from this position of weakness in theory were proposed here, as well as in the literature: one point of agreement may be that the family life cycle must be studied as one system amongst others. Organizational and interorganizational linkages were considered, Attendance of the 70 participants from 9:30 each morning to 6:30 each evening was astonishingly high. There were rewards over and above the purely cognitive in the 7 course lunches each day, and to others, that what is a set of transactions between families and other groups, there was general consensus in the family as a system, which changes through its own internal dynamics as well as through transactions with other social systems. For the seventy participants, a most rewarding seminar. Selected papers are being edited for publication by the committee below. The thanks of CGF go to the organizers:
