Letter from the President of RC15

Welcome to the 58th edition of the Newsletter for RC 15, Sociology of Health and the first of 2014. This newsletter is particularly relevant to those of you who are attending the forthcoming ISA World Congress in Yokohama between 13th and 19th July 2014. On the following pages we list all the sessions organised by RC15 and those organised in conjunction with other RCs.

We also include information about the exciting social programme we have arranged to complement the scientific sessions. These include a new Mentoring Panel dinner to advise postgraduates in medical sociologists about conceptualising research, writing for publication and more, organised by Stephanie Short and Miwoko Hosoda, to be held right after the business meeting on 17 July. We also have a study tour of Japanese health care, organised by Masahira Anesaki and Takuya Matsushige on 17 July, during the day, and a banquet on 15 July, at Amataro, five minutes' walk from the conference venue

For the latest information about the ISA's World Congress please visit the dedicated website (<http://www.isa-sociology.org/congress2014>).

Finally, as this is an election year, please consider nominating yourself or another esteemed colleague, for election to the RC15 Steering Board. Please see the closing note from our Secretary-Treasurer, Amélie Quesnel-Vallée, for the procedure to follow in this regard.

I and other members of the Steering Committee are very much looking forward to meeting those of you who will be attending the World Congress in Yokohama and hope you enjoy what we expect to be a very memorable occasion.

Best wishes

Jonathan

The Yokohama ISA RC15 Mentoring Panel is a unique opportunity to provide Postgraduate Students with conviviality and co-existence with senior members of the scholarly community of international health sociologists who are elected members of the Board of the ISA RC15 from eminent universities around the world.

They will receive advice and be able to share experiences with senior members of their discipline in discussing a range of topics including research methodology, conceptualising research, collaboration with health professionals, comparative health care systems, writing for publication, and attracting research support.

Details: Thursday July 17, 19:30 at the Conference Venue, room TBD (after the business meeting, and in the same room). A light dinner will be provided.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
New Measures of Age and Ageing

Vienna, 3–5 December 2014

In Europe and other developed regions of the world, life expectancy has increased significantly in recent decades and continues to increase. As people live longer, they also stay healthier for longer. But most studies of population ageing focus on only one characteristic of people: their chronological age. The implicit assumption is that other characteristics relevant to population ageing do not change over time and place. But clearly, they do. 65-year-olds today generally have higher remaining life expectancies and are healthier than their counterparts in previous generations—which is reflected, in many countries, in rising ages of eligibility for public pensions. Many important characteristics of people vary with age, but age-specific characteristics also vary over time and differ from place to place. Focusing on only one aspect of the changes entailed in population ageing but not on all the others provides a limited picture of the process, one that is often not appropriate for either scientific study or policy analysis.

The conference will be devoted to new ways of measuring ageing that more accurately represent the real world. These new metrics for population ageing will include factors such as life expectancy, health, disability, cognition and the ability to work—measures that explain how people live and what they need, not just the number of years they have lived. The economic implications of these new measures of age will be also discussed.

Topics of interest include the following:

- Life-table-based measures
- Measures based on subjective life expectancy and survival probabilities
- Measures based on self-reported physical conditions
- Measures based on biomarkers
- Measures based on cognitive functioning
- Economic implications of the new measures
- Country case studies

The conference will be co-ordinated by Sergei Scherbov and Warren Sanderson. After scientific review, selected conference contributions will be published in the thematic issue of the Vienna Yearbook of Population Research 2016. The Yearbook is widely circulated in hard copy and freely available on the web (<http://www.oeaw.ac.at/vid/yearbook>). This rather young journal already has a high impact factor.

Please send your 1-page abstract to conference.vid@oeaw.ac.at by 30 June 2014

Successful submitters will be informed by 1 August 2014

ELECTIONS

Dear colleagues,

As established in our statutes, it is now time to elect new board members!

On behalf of the Steering Board, I am therefore calling for the nomination of candidates for election to the RC15 Steering Board, for a term of eight years, beginning on January 1, 2015, and ending on December 30, 2022.

Both self-nominations as well as nominations of other RC15 members are welcomed.

In making nominations, members are encouraged to consider the desirability of promoting diversity in the membership of the Steering Board, to include, but not be restricted to, diversity in region of origin, language and gender. As it is always extremely valuable to have "local" Steering Board members, you may also want to bear in mind in submitting your nominations the location of our next meetings, which will be in Vienna, Austria in 2016 (3rd ISA Forum) and Toronto, Canada in 2018 (XIXth ISA Congress).

You can find the current composition of our Board here: <http://www.isa-sociology.org/rc15.htm>. Newly elected members will join the following current Steering Board members whose mandate continues until 2018:

Masahira Anesaki (Japan)
 Guido Giarelli (Italy)
 Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld (USA)
 Ellen Kuhlmann (Germany)
 Amélie Quesnel-Vallée (Canada)
 Stephanie Short (Australia)

I will collect nominations up until (and including) the Business Meeting at the ISA Congress, which is scheduled for July 17, 17h30-19h20.

Once the nomination process is complete, I will then contact each nominee to ensure that they are willing to stand for election and conduct an electronic ballot in the fall, the results of which will be circulated to the RC15 membership no later than December 1, 2014.

In closing, I hope you will join the Board in thanking those outgoing board members who provided years of dedicated service, namely Ivy Bourgeault, Jon Gabe (ex officio until 2016), Leah Gilbert, and Ishwar Modi.

I look forward to your nominations!

Best regards,

Amélie Quesnel-Vallée
