Note from the RC48 President

Dear Colleagues members of RC48

It gives us a great pleasure to present to you the plans of our RC for the Vienna Forum meetings that will take place between July 10-15, and our plans for pre-forum activities on July 9. With the mobilizations of 2011-2012 behind us, the repercussions are still with us and will be here for quite some time. No one can really assess the magnitude of the consequences of these events, but it is clear that the future holds many more mobilizations, as we can see currently in France and in other parts of Europe and the US. Repression also continues including the detention of Turkish activist academics, some of them part of our network and the murder of others. The issues that have driven people to mobilize during the 2011-12 period have not been resolved and will provide ongoing mobilizations as well as acts of repression on the part of authorities. It is thus very important that we should continue with our efforts on the academic front to make these struggles visible worldwide. More than that, we should do whatever we can as academics to help the people fighting for their rights, freedom and dignity. We join in this endeavour with RC47 and on the joint pre-Forum planned for July 9th; the closing part of the program is devoted to repression and threat towards social movement scholars, and will be attended by Margaret Abraham, the ISA president.

Note from the RC48 President

This newsletter is devoted to RC48 activities in the forthcoming Vienna Forum meetings. RC47 has organized a workshop for PhD. Students that will run parallel with a Pre-Forum joint day conference with RC47. Both these activities are planned for Saturday' July 9th. We urge our members that will be attending the Forum meetings to plan on attending these events. The PhD. Workshop will present work in progress around the world and the Pre-Forum joint RC47+48 conferences will deal with the most updated approaches and issues with the participation of most noted scientists.

Next, the program of RC48 Vienna-Forum is presented in full and this will make it easier for you to plan your participation before arriving in Vienna. The program is very rich and includes joint sessions with other RCs (32, 47,36) and a business meeting. The opening session that will be held together with RC 47 includes the notable scholars Donatella dela Porta, Saskia Sassen and Maha Abdelrahman. Alaine Tourain will be our guest in yet another joint session that will pay homage to his work and there are many inspiring and interesting sessions.

We are looking forward to these great events and hope to see you there.

Tova Benski

About RC48 and ISA

---

The research Committee on social Movements, Collective Action and Social Change (RC48) is part of the International Sociological Association (ISA). It was founded as a Working Group in 1992, under the presidency of Prof. Bert Klandermans. In 1994 it was recognized as an ISA Research Committee.

The objective of RC48 is to foster intellectual, academic and scholarly exchanges between researchers of broadly defined social movements, collective action and social change. The RC48 is currently based at the Collective Identity Research Centre (Department of Sociology 2, University of the Basque Country, Spain).

The ISA was founded in 1949 under the auspices of UNESCO. With more than 5,000 members coming from 167 countries, the ISA is currently the most important international professional association in the field of sociology. Its goal is to advance sociological knowledge throughout the world, and to represent sociologists everywhere, regardless of their school of thought, scientific approaches or ideological opinion.

The on-going scientific activities of the ISA are decentralised in 55 Research Committees (RC), 3 Working Groups (WG) and 5 Thematic Groups (TG), each dealing with a well-recognized specialty in sociology. These groups bring together scholars who wish to pursue comparative research on a transnational basis and they constitute basic networks of scientific research, intellectual debate and professional exchange. Although they must fulfil certain minimum requirements, RCs have complete autonomy to operate. Each RC's governing body is the Board, formed by a President, a secretary, and a variable number of board members.

RC48 participates in the organization of both the ISA World Congresses, celebrated every 4 years since 1950 (Zurich), and the ISA Forums of Sociology, also celebrated every 4 years since 2008 (Barcelona).

In contrast to the ISA World Congress, which has a more professional and academic character, the forum's original purpose was to establish an open dialogue with colleagues doing sociology in public institutions, social movements, and civil society organizations. This means that every two years, we are involved in the organization of a world-wide event.

In between ISA World Congresses and forums, our committee organizes smaller scientific meetings called RC48 international conferences. These meetings tend to be more narrowly focused than other ISA events and, on average, they gather between 30 and 60 scholars. As a consequence, colleagues can make longer presentations, and we can go hold deeper and more enriching debates.

We live in a time of deep reconfigurations of democracy, social movements and activism. Five years after the start of a major global movements' wave in 2011, the panorama for social movements and democracy in the 2010s is a contrasting one. How do new trends in social movements study help us to grasp this fast evolving situation and the changing forms and meanings of both social movements and democracy?

The decade started with a spread of emancipatory movements and democratic openings. After a phase of intense mobilizations, some of these activists have developed democratic and emancipatory practices in their daily life, while others experiment a partial shift to the institutional politics arena. By the mid-2010s, the panorama for social movements and democracy looks however far more contrasting. The democratic project has however come under serious threat. Social movements are repressed, journalists are killed, and citizens are spied by their states. Even in democratic regions, citizens seem to have little impact on major economic and political decisions. At the same time, conservative, racist

Solidarity, 'feel good' activism and emotional domino effects in transnational social movements

Location: Hörsaal I (Neues Institutsgebäude (NIG))

Oral Presentation

Helena FLAM, University of Leipzig, Germany

There is still relatively little research on the transnationality of social movements and even less on emotions. In my presentation I will reflect on both. The transnational element is undeniable, for example, in the widespread current German mobilization for the political refugees coming to Germany from Syria and Africa, although it does not require the mobilized individuals to leave their country of residence. But, such mobilized individuals and, indeed, "Germany" at the moment, are a drop in the sea. Most Europeans, refuse to engage in similar acts of transnationality on their "home" territory. I will address emotions but also migration trends, economic structures, historical trajectories and national identities to try to explain why "Germany" seems to be exceptional to then consider the question whether such acts of transnationality express solidarity, "feel good" mobilization or well-understood self-interest. As a second, dissimilar case I will treat the Arab Spring whose transnationality involved enabling emotional domino effects. These had their own economic and historical causes, as Pearlman tells us. Finally, the movement for Justice, Truth and Reconciliation (JT&R) draws attention to transnational efforts to put an end to genocides as well as war and humanitarian crimes by bringing the political and military elites responsible for them to the court or tribunal of justice. In this case, those who debate sit in judgement of both perpetrators and their victims, calling on both to abide by the emotional regime they envision. While many African states supported the JT&R movement, they no longer back its offspring, the ICC in the Hague. The three cases taken together suggest that both transnationality and emotionality of transnational mobilizations vary from case to case and therefore call for posing case-related research questions. These - when well-posed - tell us why such transnational mobilizations become possible or sustained.

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Newsletter of the Research Committee on Social Movements, Collective Action and Social Change (RC48)

PAPELES DEL CEIC
INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL ON COLLECTIVE IDENTITY RESEARCH

SPECIAL ISSUE "THE ACTIVISM OF VICTIMS"

The International Journal on Collective Identity Papeles del CEIC has the pleasure to invite social scientists to submit for publication their research in the area of the collective mobilization of victims of different forms of political and social violence, more specifically the study of the social, political and cultural conditions that enable such mobilizations and how victims, their families and activists organize, claim and defend victims' rights.

We welcome empirical research on different forms of commitment and engagement with "victims' rights" and in particular on any of the following themes:

- a) The process of constituting movements of victims, families of victims and activists who mobilize in their defense; the genesis of and recruitment to such victims' organizations, their practices of action, the activists' careers of engagement, and the professionalization of such activism.
- b) The process of creating institutional mechanisms that strive to reduce victims' suffering through State policies, and the relation between victims' organizations and the State.
- c) The use of expertise and scientific knowledge such as psychology, medicine, history, social work, genetics, law and forensic anthropology, in the management of victims' lives.

PAPELES DEL CEIC
INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL ON COLLECTIVE IDENTITY RESEARCH

d) The struggles of classification and legitimation of narratives of violence and social and political conflicts, and the judicial and political disputes to obtain recognition of claims.

Deadline for submission: 1 September 2016

Articles are accepted in Spanish, English, French and Portuguese.

The articles should be submitted through the journal's web site <http://www.ehu.eus/ojs/index.php/papelesCEIC> indicating that the article submitted is a Single Topic Issue (Artículos de investigación. Monográficos) and following the author guidelines available here: <http://bit.ly/24rjdZM>

The articles will be peer reviewed according to the following policy: <http://bit.ly/28M38dj>

CALL FOR PAPERS

NEW: Interface 8/1 is now out

Interface: a journal for and about social movements.

Volume eight, issue one (May 2016): general issue.

Available: <http://bit.ly/1IwYA9>

Volume eight, issue one of Interface, a peer-reviewed online journal produced and refereed by social movement practitioners and engaged movement researchers, is now out. Interface is open-access (free), global and multilingual. Our overall aim is to "learn from each other's struggles": to develop a dialogue between practitioners and researchers, but also between different social movements, intellectual traditions and national or regional contexts.

Like all issues of Interface, this issue is free and open-access. You can download articles individually or a complete PDF of the issue (4.8 MB). Please note that you can also subscribe (free) on the right-hand side of the webpage to get email notification each time a new issue or call for papers is out. This issue of Interface includes 237 pages and 17 pieces, by authors writing from / about Australia, Canada, Denmark, Egypt, El Salvador, Germany, Greece, Iceland, India, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, New Zealand, Poland, South Africa, the UK and the USA.
