

Call for Contributions

Pedagogy Series ISA Social Justice and Democratization Space

Share your teaching practices and reflections with sociology educators around the globe. Publish your work in the Pedagogy Series, housed on the ISA Social Justice and Democratization Space. We accept reflections on teaching practices, annotated syllabi, assignment instructions, empirical pedagogy research, and theoretical work related to sociological teaching. Submissions are accepted in all languages. Email your submission to Katherine.lyon@ubc.ca before December 15, 2022. Submission word length is between 1000-6000 words. Citation style is APA.

The Pedagogy Series is a collaboration between the International Sociological Association's Social Justice and Democratization Space and the ISA's thematic group, Sociological Teaching.

The Pedagogy Series is an open access publication for which the papers are edited but not peer reviewed. Authors can publish their works in the usual academic outlets before or after the paper has appeared in the series, with an acknowledgement.

With best wishes,
