

Assistant/Associate Professor of Risk and Resilience among Vulnerable Families, Adults, and Youth
Human Development and Family Studies, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA

Full-time, nine month, benefits-eligible, tenure-track, Assistant/Associate Professor. The successful candidate will have expertise in risk and resilience among vulnerable families, adults, and youth and how these may relate to food insecurity and health. Areas of expertise may include health disparities and access to food; child and youth health outcomes related to food insecurity; food insecurity and immigration; intersections of gender-race-family economic status and food insecurity; family coping strategies and food insecurity; and evidence-based, culturally-sensitive family community-focused interventions and policies regarding food insecurity. Salary will be competitive and commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience. Position begins August 16th, 2019.

Applications received by December 1, 2018 will receive priority. Applicants may be interviewed before the closing date; however, no hiring decision will be made until after the closing date. The position will remain open until a suitable candidate is identified. For further information regarding this position, please visit our web page <https://hdfs.illinois.edu>, or contact Dr. Barbara Fiese, Search Committee Chair, at (217)244-3967, email: bhfiese@illinois.edu.

To apply, submit a letter of application, CV, research and teaching statement, two representative publications, and names and contact information of three references to <https://jobs.illinois.edu/>.

*The University is an EEO Employer/Vet/Disabled www.inclusiveillinois.illinois.edu
The University of Illinois conducts criminal background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer.*